

The contemporary way of celebration

10 September 2014, New Delhi, Team MP

The Contemporary Art Week 2014 brings the Capital a mix of dancers, musicians, photographers, film makers, actors, improve theatre, stand-up comedians and much more.

The Contemporary Arts Week 2014 is an initiative by Friends of Art back with their second innings to enthrall music and art aficionados. The event is spread over 10 days of excitement with 35 events including new entries such as photography, visual art, and spoken word and improve theatre.

Established and budding artistes will exhibit their passion in the form of art, puppetry, dance, music, stand-up comedy, drama, clowning etc.

This initiative is a conscious effort to educate the audiences by bringing together artistes and likeminded people under one roof to engage creatively by appreciating the talent in different genre - dance, music, theatre, visual arts etc.

The event will be held from 12 September till 21 September at multiple venues like Shiros, India Habitat Centre, Summerhouse café, Alliance Francaise, Satya Sai Auditorium, Zorba and Epicentre, Gurgaon etc.

Reining into its 2nd year the week will witness some soul rendering performances by artistes such as Parikrama, Adi and Suhail (Coke Studio fame), The Danceworx, Advaita, The Chrysalis Project, Santosh Nair (Sadhya Dance Co., Faridkot, Dilip Shankar, Gyandev Singh(National Awardee) and Apurv Gupta and the list goes on. So head over!
